SAMPLE DELIVERABLE · ILLUSTRATIVE OUTPUT

What you receive when your thinking is finally extracted, structured and made legible.
This is a composite sample built from representative engagements — founder identity and industry replaced — shown here to demonstrate the form and depth of the actual deliverable, not to represent any real client.

FOUNDER PROFILE

19-Year Operator

Professional Advisory Practice · Sample

YOU ARE NOT MORE VISIBLE. YOU ARE IMPOSSIBLE TO IGNORE.

01

Intellectual Asset Inventory

SAMPLE EXCERPT

Everything you know, structured for the first time.

Extracted across fourteen hours of structured excavation, then distilled into four asset classes. What follows is a representative excerpt — the full Inventory runs to sixty-plus catalogued assets.

CORE PRINCIPLE · 01

"Complexity is not depth."

The founder's standing objection to over-engineered advice. Used to reject elaborate frameworks in favour of the smallest model that still explains the whole system — now the practice's stated filter for every deliverable that leaves the door.

DECISION MODEL

The Exit-First Filter

Before accepting any new mandate, the engagement is tested against a single question: does this make the founder more or less replaceable in twelve months? Declined work that fails it — regardless of fee.

PROPRIETARY LANGUAGE

"Borrowed Authority"

The founder's term for advice a client adopts without understanding it — distinguishing durable judgement transfer from surface-level compliance. Appears unprompted in client notes as early as year three.

FRAMEWORK

The Three-Room Model

An unnamed but consistently reused structure for diagnosing where a client's real decision is being made — the room they meet in, the room they decide in, and the room the founder is never invited to. Present in eleven of twelve reviewed case files, never previously written down.

PATTERN RECOGNITION

The Second-Year Plateau

A recurring diagnostic call made early and confidently, well before it became conventional wisdom in the field. Surfaced through side-by-side comparison of eight years of client openings.

02

Intellectual Positioning Statement

SAMPLE

One precise articulation of what makes you commercially irreplaceable.

POSITIONING STATEMENT — DRAFT 3, ADOPTED

"I don't advise on the decision in front of the client. I diagnose the decision-making pattern that keeps producing it — then I build the model that makes the client capable of catching the next one without me in the room."

Built from eleven raw self-descriptions given across the excavation interviews, cross-referenced against seven years of client testimonials, and stress-tested against three competitor positioning statements in the same category until only the founder's version survived.

03

Authority Blueprint

EXCERPT

The master strategic document, built to last.

NARRATIVE SPINE

Nineteen years, three recessions, one rebuild after losing the founding client relationship in year six — reframed from a story about resilience into a case study in how the founder's own decision models were formed under pressure.

SIGNATURE FRAMEWORKS

The Three-Room Model and the Exit-First Filter, named, diagrammed and sequenced as the practice's two flagship instruments — the entry point for every future keynote, proposal and syllabus.

PROOF POINTS

Forty-one client engagements mapped against the Second-Year Plateau pattern, with the seven clearest cases selected as the standing reference set for speaking and business development.

PLATFORM APPLICATION

Positioning statement adapted into a one-page bio, a keynote abstract, a proposal opening paragraph, and a LinkedIn headline — four surfaces, one underlying asset.

04

Knowledge Transfer System

SAMPLE

Where it lives, who uses it, how it scales.

Internal — Team

The Three-Room Model issued as a one-page diagnostic card; junior consultants now run it unsupervised in first client meetings.

Internal — Onboarding

Decision models sequenced into a four-week induction, replacing eleven years of informal shadowing.

External — Clients

Positioning Statement and Authority Blueprint adapted into a client-facing methodology one-pager, issued at proposal stage.

Succession

Full Ledger held as the founding reference document for the eventual successor, independent of the founder's ongoing presence.
